Conference Goals:

1. Disseminate knowledge acquired through research, practice and teaching of Modeling and Role-Modeling nursing theory;
2. Promote theory based, holistic person-centered practice in nursing;
3. Contribute to improvement of health care through the promotion of holistic health;
4. Promote networking among professionals interested in this theory and holistic person-centered practice; and
5. Provide a forum for debate and discussion about future applications of this theory in promoting holistic person-centered practice.

Keynote Speakers:

Daniel J. Pesut, PhD, RN, FAAN is currently, Professor of Nursing and Associate Dean for Graduate Programs at Indiana University School of Nursing and served as President (2003-2005) of the Honor Society of Nursing, Sigma Theta Tau International. Dr. Pesut is a popular author, speaker and consultant, and is internationally known for his work in nursing education related to creative-teaching learning methods; self-regulation of health status, clinical reasoning, futures thinking and leadership development.

Helen L.
